

President's Notes:

EVA 23

It has become glaringly obvious to the board that the model of EVA that has served us for so many decades is no longer relevant to the member needs. The customary monthly meeting with a demonstrator has been only sparsely attended this year which is a good indicator of wants. What members do seem to be interested in, however, is maintaining membership, receiving newsletters, participating in challenges, both in-person and online, staying up-to-date on Facebook, and joining shows and sales.

To that end, big changes and improvements are coming to EVA. Like EVA 2.0, I like to call it EVA 23. Since we will have new areas of focus, there will be new opportunities to pitch in. We will have fewer meetings and demos, but more communication and events. We will make our annual show a priority with a leader. We will share more information about upcoming calls for entries, current shows, and member news.

We want EVA to thrive and these changes are necessary as we move forward.

As always, I welcome your comments and look forward to a renewed EVA 23.

Challenges are Back!

Due to popular demand, we are bringing back the Challenges! Each month we will include a prompt in the newsletter. This month we will start with a piece of art for your prompt. It is up to you to determine how you go from here. You could make a painting with the same features, you could go for the antithesis, you could pull out one or all of the colors, the options are endless. Your Prompt for October is this Dress fragment: “Paradise Valley, Mount Rainier,” 1927. Manufactured by H. R. Mallinson & Co. Inc., designed by Walter Mitschke. Silk, complex weave, cylinder printed. Fine Arts Museums of San Francisco. Currently on Display at the De Young.

You can submit your Challenge work either to the Facebook group at <https://www.facebook.com/groups/eastvalleyartists>.

Or you can email your submission to us at: eastvalleyartists@gmail.com

Next month I will include the submissions in the news letter and include the next prompt. If you have a question or a suggestion for the challenge just drop an email to EVA or to shelly@perledivetro.com.

Help Wanted

The board has decided to bring back the Annual Show and Sale in 2023. If you have ideas for the show we welcome input and help. We, like all clubs are always looking for help. If you would be interested in taking on a small or large role in the club, we encourage you to come to the next board meeting to help plan what will happen with the club next year.

Did you catch the last Demo?

Here's what Hadi Aghae had to say:

"The demo at East Valley Artists by Denise Howard was a treat. Wealth of information on the Colored Pencil medium was shared. It was great to learn about various tools, materials, colored pencil types and brands. We got to feel and experience different surface types used by professionals for this medium. Overall a very informative lecture and demo on Colored Pencil medium!"
